

Welcome to our new website!

It retains most of the content of the old website – who we are, how to contact us, all the historical articles, the full archive catalogue and details of forthcoming events – but in a more colourful display and with easier access to essential information.

It is at last considered complete, but our Facebook page is being updated and is thus presently unavailable.

On the archive tab the link to the Archive Catalogue works as do the search facilities, once you are there. Note first the terms and conditions for research, including the fees.

The website now displays on tablets and smartphones. With these, for access to further sections, click on the menu, top right corner of the home page.

Please feel free to click on the tabs and other links, to find out for yourself what is on offer. All comments, whether brickbats or bouquets, and other suggestions should be emailed to 'treashistorychristchurch@gmail.com'.
